Fair value of independent professional services business (IPS)

Performance data and trust statistics include the fair value of the IPS, which uplifted the NAV by 70.1p per share.

Fund objective

Our objective is to achieve long term capital growth in real terms and steadily increasing income. The aim is to achieve a higher rate of total return than the FTSE All-Share Index through investing in a portfolio diversified both geographically and by industry.

Fund managers' comments

James Henderson

September was a modestly weak month for the Trust in absolute terms. The net asset value on a total return basis (with debt at fair value) fell 0.5% while the FTSE All-Share rose 0.7%. Within this a rise in bond yields meant the fair value of the debt was revised downward. Keeping the debt at par the net asset value total return was -0.8%.

The largest (actively held) positive contributor to performance was Caterpillar. A recent rise in commodity prices is leading to growing confidence that customers in these end markets will look to replace their ageing equipment, which should benefit equipment manufacturers such as Caterpillar. The weakest performer during the month was Fastjet, which is aiming to roll out low cost air travel across Africa. While some markets are demonstrating good growth, the Tanzanian market is proving extremely challenging due to both a difficult economic backdrop and the national carrier pricing irrationally.

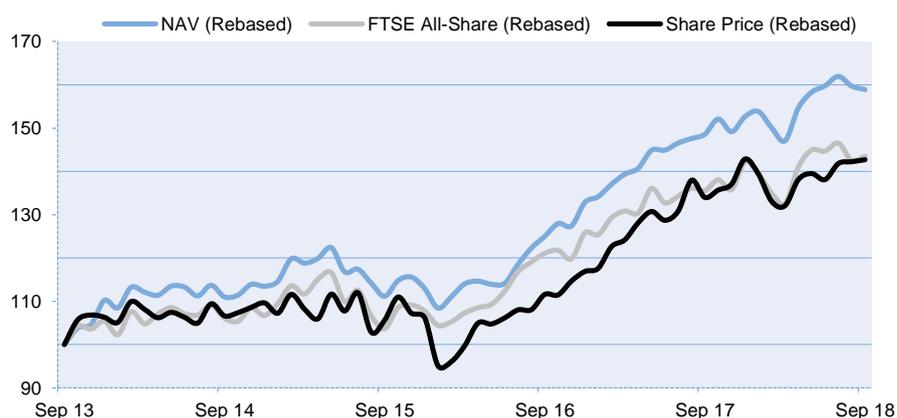

Buying and selling activity remained modest. We continue to be cautious with new purchases as valuations of good quality companies are, on the whole, high. This does not preclude there being interesting opportunities and we added a new position in semiconductor equipment manufacturer Lam Research, which is well exposed to structural growth in the use of chips.
